Some members of the General Assembly are aspiring to appointment as United States marshal for this district of Virgima. It seems understood that General Mahone controls the matter.

Post. Mr. Lybrook, of Patrick, will claim the floor in the Senate to-day at 1 o'clock to answer the speech of Mr. Riddleberger,

Letter from L. Wagner, Esq., Secretary of the German Association. To the Editor of the Dispatch:

Yesterday's article speaking of the "German Citizens' Association," allow me to say, does not give its aims and objects fairly nor correctly, and is calculated to create false impressions. Our Germansay, does not give its aims and objects fairly nor correctly, and is calculated to create false impressions. Our German-American citizens, with perhaps individual exceptions, are a law-abiding, peace-and order-loving people. They are a moral and Christian people, and as such, to represent them as being opposed to the enactment and enforcement of laws governing our Sabbath, or, indeed, any laws governing and protecting the peace, order, and morality of our city, is simply out of reason. Why, sir, are they not as much interested in the welfare of the city as any one else? We help to bear the burdens in the shape of taxation, and we simply mean to vote for the best men, with an eve single to the good of our city; and if the question of Maine-liquor or local-option law does become a live question with us all, then I suppose they will vote just as they please, and if they think that their personal rights and privileges are threatened by it, they will vote against it—a right every citizen can exercise whenever he chooses.

You may, perhaps, Mr. Editor, feel indifferent as to this matter, but we claim that injustice has been done us. This is no move on part of liquor-dealers, as your article seems to represent, nor is it in the interest of any party or politician (as correctly stated), and when the time comes HUBARD. is will be published in full, and will be found to contain no such revolutionary socialistic ideas, as one would suppose from the reading of the article. There are other statements more or less correct in that article, but as they do not affect any one in particular, I will not make further reply. In regard to the charge, or rather libel, upon us and our characters as peaceful, law-abiding, and responsible citizens, and some of us members of various Christian denominations, I think that an honorable career and record of years will offer ample security for the future and will go further to refute such charges than mere words. I have hastily and with the go further to return such and with the mere words. I have hastily and with the knowledge of some of our members penned these lines, not to excite a controversy on this one question.

Yours respectfully, The Dispatch reporter, in justice to him-self and to all concerned, makes the following reply to the foregoing communica-

1. If the chairman and secretary of the Executive Committee of the German Citizens' Association will say over their signatures that at a meeting of the German Excontive Committee it was not agreed to ask candidates at the coming municipal election certain questions, which in effect are substantially those published in the Dispetch, then he will give the sources of his information on the subject.

2. If the aforesaid officers, over their ignatures, will say that the question of taking part in the coming primary election was not considered at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Association, and postponed until its next meeting, then the reporter will show a written statement to prove what has been published.

3. The reporter denies making any libelous charge upon the character of the Ger- NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL mans "as peaceful, law-abiding, and responsible citizens." and nothing of the sort can be seen in the article in yesterday's is " read between the lines."
